Arrest City Police In Student Assault

Fredericton, N.B., Feb. 18.—Two Fredericton city police officers were arrested yesterday by R.C. M.P. officers, on a charge of doing grievous bodily harm to a University of New Brunswick student recently.

The arrests were made as the result of an investigation by the Attorney-General of the province into the circumstances surrounding the arrest of Andrew Fleming, President of the Sophomore Class. Fleming was hospitalized as a result of injuries received while allegedly resisting arrest on charges of intoxication following a campus dance.

After a preliminary hearing this morning, the trial was postponed until Feb. 22. The investigation was made at the request of Dr. M. F. Gregg, President of U.N.B., in cooperation with the Students' Council.

Fleming, a veteran of five years' service in the Canadian infantry, was returning from the Veterans'

Formal at approximately 2.30 a.m. one Saturday recently, and was standing behind his own car when three members of the city police approached him and placed him under arrest. Fleming stated his desire to return his escort to her home before being taken to jail. In the ensuing argument he was knocked down and struck on the head at least three times during which he lost consciousness.

Taken to the city jail, Fleming was placed in a cell in handcuffs. His requests for first aid were denied, and he was kept in the cell without food or water until he was released on payment of $28 the same morning at 11 a.m. He was confined to a hospital suffering from an ear injury and possible fracture.

The Students Representative Council became aroused and indignant at the action, and held lengthy meetings to discuss the Fredericton City Police treatment of one of their students.

IRC Sponsors Two Speakers This Evening

The I.R.C. is sponsoring a meeting tonight at 8.00 o'clock in the Grill Room of the Union. Professor Cohen of the Faculty of Law and Professor Mallory of the Economics and Political Science Department will be the guest-speakers of the Club.

The meeting will take the form of a discussion on the general topic "International Law and International Politics". An informal discussion period will follow the meeting. All students are invited to attend, particularly students in International Law and Political Science.

An important election will also take place at tonight's meeting. The Canadian Institute of International Affairs has advised the I.R.C. that they will consider the names of ten McGill Students for Student-Membership in the Institute. The Executive wishes to advise members of the Club and the whole student-body that five nominees are to be chosen at tonight's meeting.

This will be the fifth meeting of the Club for this academic year. Future events will bring to McGill such World-Personalities as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Professor Humphrey of U.N.O. and the Canadian Ambassador to Washington, L. B. Pearson. Please follow The Daily for more details and information about I.R.C. meetings.

'Gen Nite'

Business Opportunities Topic Of Final Thursday Meeting

On Thursday, February 27, at 8.30 p.m. in the Union Grill Room the "Gen Nite" series sponsored by the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society, Education Committee, will be continued. The chairman of the meeting is Mr. Hugh A. Crombie, now an officer in the Dominion Engineering Works Limited, and a past president of the McGill Graduates Society.

This meeting will stress "Opportunities in the Business World", and three well-qualified speakers have been chosen to lead the discussion. They are Mr. E. W. Crowe, Assistant Actuary for the Sun Life Assurance Company, Mr. R. I. C. Picard, Secretary of the Royal Bank of Canada, and Mr. E. G. Taylor, Assistant Manager, Industrial Relations Department, Canadian Industries Limited. Mr. Crowe will speak on "Opportunities for Arts and Science Graduates in the insurance field," Mr. Picard's subject will be "Opportunities for Arts and Science graduates in the banking, trust company, loan and financial field," and Mr. Taylor will discuss "Opportunities for Arts and Science graduates in the industrial field."

It is proposed that each of the three speakers will give a ten-minute talk, to be followed in each case by a ten-minute question and discussion period on the field covered by the talk. At the conclusion of the panel of three speeches and question periods, it is proposed to have a general question period, during the course of which the audience will have the opportunity of addressing questions to any one of the speakers.

This "Gen Nite" meeting is being held with four aims in view, to indicate to students in Arts and Science the conditions likely to exist in the business world at the time of their graduation, to point out the opportunities likely to be available, to indicate obstacles commonly faced, with suggested ways of overcoming or circumventing them, and to suggest the type of educational background which will most adequately equip students for the different posts.

Thus far the "Gen Nite" series has been well received on the campus, stated a spokesman for the committee, with approximately 150 students in attendance at each session. However due to lack of time next week's program will probably be the last one for this term.

500 Teachers Will Attend McGill Course

Opening at 8 p.m. this evening in the Montreal High School, the McGill evening extension course, "Education and Mental Health" has registered some 500 teachers. It was learned last night.

W. E. Dunton, chairman of the Montreal Protestant Central School Board, will preside at the opening lecture which is to be delivered by Dr. Baruch Silverman, director of the Mental Hygiene Institute. His topic will be "Behavior Problems and Mental Health."

University authorities have had so many queries concerning this course that it was moved the campus to the high school assembly hall in order to get a large enough hall. Succeeding lectures at weekly intervals include Dr. R. M. MacLeod, Dr. Robert B. Malmo, Dr. Forrest LaViolette, Dr. Oswald Hall, Dr. D. Ewen Cameron all of McGill.

Anniversary Issue Sees Radical Layout Ideas; Add Cartoons

Red and White Society Erects Sale Booths in Key Buildings

By LARRY SIROTA

The management of the current 50th anniversary edition of Old McGill has swung the pendulum in the modern direction this year by deciding to revamp the whole layout system of the tried and true annual publication. As a means of furthering their streamlining efforts, the Annual has secured the combined talents of Gordie (Little Willie) Kearns and the School of Architecture for this bold, new, radical venture.

Not only will front and rear inside covers be bedecked with cartoons depicting life at the Alma Mater in 1897 as compared to that in 1947, but the same comparison theme has been injected into the Campus Life section commemorating the publication's 50th anniversary. In addition, Gordie Kearns has consented to mimic McGill's major sport enterprises with cartoons, superimposed on actual photos of the various teams in action. The Architects have done the frontispieces on all the sections as they did last year.

Work on Old McGill has been proceeding at a very smooth and brisk pace of late. All the modernized layouts have been completed and sent down to the printers. The writings of the four political clubs and the various societies is expected by the end of the month as are the Grad biographies and photographs.

At no other time in the history of the Annual have six photographers been employed at the same time and this year's staff is setting a precedent in an effort to obtain the correct balancing effect of student activities and campus social life. Net result, a bigger and better Campus Diary.

To facilitate the means of obtaining copies of Old McGill 1947, the executive has prevailed upon the Red and White Society to set up booths in all the main buildings every Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. At these booths will be receipts for payment by cash or cheque for a publication that has all the earmarks of being the biggest and most broadly covered edition yet to be available to the whole student body.

Discuss Term Papers At Soc. Society Meet

Miss Aileen Ross, lecturer in the McGill Department of Sociology, attempted yesterday to allay the fears of some 40 students about their term projects in the fifth lunch-hour meeting of the McGill Sociological Society.

Miss Ross was introduced by the Chairman Jay Jackson, who warned that in line with the recent developments at McGill this was not to be considered an open meeting and that all questions must be carefully framed so as to give no offence to the authorities. An outline of the steps and procedures in planning and writing a term report was given by Miss Ross, with especial emphasis on the need for defining the problem of the essay. In the discussion afterwards there was much discussion of the methods of teaching Sociology and of the methods in approaching term projects.

There was an announcement before adjournment, that at a future meeting either Dr. Prados or Professor MacLennan would speak.

PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE CLUB

Members and supporters are reminded of the address by Howard Green, M.P., Progressive Conservative member for Vancouver South, tonight at 8.30 in the Montreal West Town Hall. All students are cordially invited to attend.

Executive of Women's Union Releases Latest Plans

The latest executive meeting of the Women's Union reveals several news items of interest to coeds, including innovations in the Arts common room, news of future meetings, constitution changes, etc.

ARTS COMMON ROOM
Plans are underway to remedy the much-discussed coed situation in the Arts Building common room, by installing coat hangers along one wall. There will then be no excuse for coats lying about on the sofas and chairs, and will definitely add to the seating capacity of the room.

CONSTITUTION AMENDMENT
Barbara Jackson, vice-president, has suggested that the constitution be amended so that the women's new editor be included in the executive, and sit in on the meetings, without a vote. The other members of the executive were in favour, but this motion requires ratification at a general meeting of the Women's Union at which a quorum of sixty is essential.

ELECTION MEETING

A special meeting to hear the platforms of candidates for the elections March 5 will be held on Monday, March 3, at 4 p.m. in the R.U.C. Common Room, just prior to the men's meeting. The change in constitution will also be considered at this time. The regular general meeting of the Women's Union will be held on Tuesday, March 25.

SUGGESTION BOX

The Executive of the Union is anxious to hear the opinions of the student body regarding any changes they might wish to see, or anything else that might require attention and for this purpose a suggestion box will soon appear in the new R.V.C. lounge.

WOMEN'S UNION PAMPHLET

In order to acquaint all coeds with the work, history, officers, etc., of the Women's Union, a pamphlet is being published, including pictures of the executive, functions of the Union, and all pertinent information.

Four Dawson Squads to Compete in Athletics Night

See Action Tonight In Hoop, Hockey Floor-Hockey Tilts

By BOB USHER

Tonight Dawson sport fans will be given the treat of their lives when four teams, one of them American, will make their opening appearance on the campus playing four different Dawson squads in three different sports. The night's activities will begin at 7:15 p.m. sharp in the gymnasium with the Holmes' coached St. John's basketball Intermediates squaring off against the Montreal Central 'Y' bunch. One of the longest awaited battles of the season will take place directly following this contest when the top team of the Dawson Floor Hockey League meets up with an 'All Star' squad from McGill.

The main attraction of the evening will be right after floor hockey-keystyle leave the floor. This will be a 'revenge' game between the Dawson Senior M.B.L. cagers and the Champlain College quintet. While these contests are taking place on the gym floor at the Ormeau Intermediate country licks Paladium, the Dawson Intercollegiate basketball team will be in the St. John's rink.

Intercollegiate Shuttle Crown At Stake Sat.

The McGill Badminton team will take to the road this weekend when they visit London to take on the Western boys to compete for top laurels in the Intercollegiate Badminton Championship. Coach Doug Grant, a former world professional bird champion himself, is sporting a top notch team, and the Western boys can be sure of some tough opposition. Outswatting for the Red and White will be Gordie Simpson, a Dawson man and former M.A.A.A. member. Gordie played in the tilt last Saturday against Queen's and did not drop one game. Claude Tetrault, who got his badminton training with the Atwater Club, will also be supporting McGill. Claude is in top condition and also showed well in the clash with Queen's a week ago.

GOOD MEN

Other McGill men will be Lorne Williams, Art Townsend, Bart Love and Lorne McKeown. It is not known whether or not Ron Dussault will be making the journey, as he was called home due to illness in the family and although McGill was victorious over Queen's last week, Ron was greatly missed.

All in all, the Red Birdmen will be out to win and regardless of the intentions of the Western lads, the McGill boys have their own ideas regarding the outcome.

McGill Senior Pucksters Drill For Championship Game Friday

By DICK JOSEPH (Daily Staff Writer)

The Red "Dynamo" hockey club took to the ice at the Forum yesterday for the second to last time before tackling the Varsity Blues on the same frozen surface this Friday night. Redmentor Dave Campbell kept them going at a terrific clip to get their legs back in shape after the weekend layoff. This and Thursday's skating session will make up the total ice time the pucksters will get in this week prior to the opening siren of the big clash.

Bystanders were pleased to note the return to action of big Ward "Bonno Pitfield" and scrappy Joe Pettit. Ward is almost completely recovered from a mouth operation, necessitated by a blow he suffered in the squads 4-1 (loss to Varsity) three weeks ago, and will be ready to swing into high gear against this same club. His centreman, Joe Pettit, is still nursing a stiff knee, but expects to work out the kinks by game time.

FLOOR HOCKEY

As far as the floor hockey goes, the Dawson boys are rather blood thirsty players in any game and this contest with all the McGill-Dawson rivalry behind it should really be a match to watch. The Alkies will meet the Red and White boys. This team that McGill is sending up looks pretty familiar with a number of ex-Dawson boys on the lineup.

The only scheduled league game of the quartet of contests being staged tomorrow night is the Hockey game which is scheduled for the St. John's rink for 8:30 p.m. against the Macdonald Aggies who we tied 3-3 last Saturday. In a prep game for Wednesday night's encounter, the puck squad took on Irberville All Stars Sunday afternoon and pulled out a 7-6 victory. Trailing 6-3 going into the final period the Blueshirts rapped in four straight tallies without a reply. Jack Brayne was really flying for the Dawsonites counting three times and narrowly missing as many more. Miro "Rocket" Bozich scored twice, Red Henderson and "Alderman" Woodward once each. Bill Ransom guarded the twine in the exhibition tilt. The team will be at full strength for tomorrow night's scheduled game, coach Phil Henry announced yesterday, and a victory will pull the Dawson crew

Red Mermen Prepare for Coming Meet

The McGill Aqua Squad will be battling to bring back to local waters the trophy emblematic of swimming supremacy this Saturday when they play host to highly rated Varsity and dark horse Queen's entries at the N.D.G. Community pool corner Decarie and Cote St. Antoine Rd. at 8 p.m.

In order to put the final touches on a well drilled team Coach Curran has called for two trial practices tonight and tomorrow in preparation for the meet. It is imperative that all swimmers meet at the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gym for a special practice tomorrow at 5:15 p.m.

TORONTO CHAMPS

Toronto copped the title last year by virtue of strength and depth of talent in every department and this year's team looks especially strong in the breaststroke department. McGill's forte, the Free Style Medley race has been very, very prominent in all their meets to date as they have only lost once in their last four engagements. Coupled with the sure bet in George Athans, ace Red diver, the Redmen will be going into this meet a stronger, more experienced and better conditioned aggregation especially since the Varsity men gained their spurs by virtue of the illegal flying start.

Coach Curran has been quite pleased with the incentive and drive shown by his latest turnouts and expects to give Toronto a real case of the blues in a tough going Saturday night.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB

Today's weekly 1 o'clock meeting will feature a talk by Jean Waelbroeck on "Pan-Europeanism."

Also there will be elections for the position of Publicity Director, caused by the resignation of Bill Jones.

The Music Room, which is always occupied by the Political Science Club for these meetings, has been booked by the L.P.P. Club. However, since the Political Science Club was allowed the use of the Music Room every Wednesday at 1-2 by the dates committee in October, efforts will be made to find another room for the L.P.P.

"Dick Currie is as good as any other goaler in this league" quoth coach Campbell on the train returning from the Kingston contest, "and is only this much below Gelineau." He indicated by holding out his thumb and forefinger only slightly separated. "On any other squad he would be first-string twine-lender," Dave continued, "and I'm glad he isn't as I'd hate to have to play against him. I am mighty thankful that I have absolutely no goaler worries on this club."

The hockeyists will take a rest from their arduous duties by taking a trip to Latuque on Saturday where they will be the guests of a local paper mill. This vacation will not be completely relaxing as they will be playing the company hockey team, but the pleasant journey will help settle jangled nerves.

McGill Gladiators End Training For Intercollegiate Meet Friday

Wally Kowal

By LARRY SIROTA (Daily Staff Writer.)

If one were to judge by the confidence expressed by coaches Phillips and Saxon, then the McGill Wrestling and Boxing outfit will bring back the trophy emblematic of Intercollegiate pugilistic supremacy. Both mentors were highly elated over the form shown by their candidates to date, as the boys went through their final paces at the gym Monday in preparation for the tilts at Toronto this weekend.

REST MEN

Phillips has ordered his mittmen to rest up till Friday, to be content with four rounds of shadow boxing and some roadwork. Saxon, on the other hand, took his grapplers down to Springfield last night but, unfortunately at the press deadline, no news of the outcome of the matches was available.

The McGill maulers looked so impressive in their final workouts that Colonel Forbes, McGill Athletic Director, has decided to go along on the trip for advisory purposes.

Backing up the confidence the Red brain trust places in them are veteran boxers Heney, Orr, Beriault, Craghan and Adams, with newcomers Lee, Cook and Lanier; while the matmen wearing the merry martlets are Kowal, Raymond and McLeod from last year's championship squad, ably fortified by rookies Hillman, Dawson, Oullette, Stafford and McPherson.

GOOD TEAMS

"We've never had a better team at McGill than this 1947 edition," beamed Messrs. Phillips and Saxon, "and what with the team in perfect shape, we can venture to predict that the Redmen won't lose many bouts at Varsity."

That sounded emphatic enough for this correspondent and he left in a very good frame of mind to board the train for Hart House in Toronto.

McGill Skiers In Dominion Champ'nships

A group of McGill skiers left last night for Quebec to take part in the Dominion Championship Ski meet to be held on nearby Mount St. Ann starting Thursday of this week. Other men will be leaving today and tomorrow to make up a total of seven skiers who will be wearing the Red colours in this meet.

Heading the impressive list will be Don Stanforth, captain of the McGill ski team, who placed second in both the downhill and cross-country at Dartmouth last week. Karre Olsen, four way racer and husky John Foster are expected to be among the top competitors in the jumping which will be held on a brand new 200 foot hill. Bruce Fleming, John Tyler and John Turner Bone will be vying for honours in the downhill and slalom races while Dick Meyer will be going four ways.

The Redmen are staying in Quebec City and will be journeying out to the skiing each day.

Volleyball Loop Now On Interfaculty Basis

There has been an apathetic lack of turnout of teams for Volleyball this year with the result that Manager Larr Sirota has found it necessary to place Volleyball on an Interfaculty basis. Team captains, which are listed below, are asked to contact either Larry Sirota at CA. 3654 or Hay Finlay at the Athletics Office, in case of inability to play, at least 48 hours before game time.

The following student managers are required to align their six-man teams for regular league play:

Arts—Bernie Dufresne; Science—Herb Lewis; Medicine—Walt Cherny; Dentistry—Beryl Mendels; Engineering—Ezra Lipshitz; Grads—Vic Hardwood; Law—Eli Solomon; Commerce—Dick Joseph; Phys. Ed.—Hay Finlay.

BASKETBALL NOTICE

There will be no practice of the Intermediate Basketball team tonight.

Red Seconds Play Georgians Tomorrow

The McGill Intermediate Hockey team will tackle the Georgians Thursday afternoon in the Verdun Auditorium when they take to the ice at 2:00 o'clock.

It should be easy going for the Redmen with Kev Kennedy in goal and a red hot lineup behind him. Tommy Bridel and Jo Jo Smythe will play Defence together with Gordon Chalmers and Mac Beck.

Whizzer Smith, Joe Malone and Johnny Read, Coach Ross Hutchings' first line, are in top condition, and it is thought that if Whizzer were not graduating this year he would be Senior hockey material next season. McGill's second line will consist of Warren Chippendale, Billy Graham and Bill Burchmore, while Stew Geddes, Bob Layton and Charlie Hayward will comprise the third line. Should the Intermediates need a substitute, Junior Smith will be there to carry on.

So far this season the Intermediates have played five games, winning two and losing three. Their two wins were over Bishops and Sir George Williams, both these colleges being easy targets for the Redmen. They suffered their defeats twice at the hands of Dawson and once by Macdonald College, losing the three games by very close margins.

Red and White Senior Cagers Play Western Here Friday Night

Come next Friday night our McGill Redmen are expected to be broncho-busters when they face the Western Mustangs in an Intercollegiate Basketball tilt at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. The Mustangs last year were the nemesis of last year's edition of the local cage team. And if their showing so far this year is any indication of their power they should provide a lot of competition for our boys.

However, the Redmen have seen a good deal of action this year in pre-season exhibition tilts and from their showings in all of them they would say that they will definitely not be easy pickings for the Purple and White.

THE CHAMPS

Coach Johnny Metras of football fame has several of his boys who won him the Intercollegiate title last year back on his team this term. He has veterans like Bob Philbbs, a speedy forward, who has a dead-eye shot, Al Scorgie, the Captain of the squad, who is a smart pivot-man if there ever was one and Dick Farley, a good young forward who has his best years ahead yet as a basketball star.

Leading the McGill six onto the floor will be some of the bywords of local cage circles. Guys like George Davidson, who is third in the league's high scorers right on the heels of Philbbs and Scorgie, Flick, as he is called by his teammates, has been worrying more coaches this year than you'd care to count. So watch out, Mr. Metras.

Another promising young hooper around this Campus is Bobby Duford, late of Dawson, who can snap those rebounds like a hawk and breaks like a greyhound after a mechanical rabbit.

Others who warm Coach Davies' heart include Meyer Bloom, a fast young forward, up with the seniors after seeing action last year with the Dawson sextet; Sam Roth, sharp-shooting forward; Ken Hoyle, the captain and mainstay of the defence; Bud Fraser, a whiz under the baskets.

All these items are scarce today—so great is the demand—and it would be harder to buy a dozen Arrows than a house or a car. But your prepacked shirt is coming back in greater quantities all the time.

McGill to Be Represented at Western Ball

Dick Tremaine, second vice-president of the Arts and Science Undergraduate Society, has been selected by the Executive of the Society to represent it at Western University's Arts and Science Ball, to be held Friday, Feb. 21. Bob Gill, Arts and Science president, in making the announcement, stated that the Executive was acting in response to a request, sent to McGill and referred to him by the Students' Council.

Dick Tremaine will leave Montreal for London on Thursday evening, and will return on Sunday. At Western, he will be shown around the University, and will meet the Undergraduate Officers before attending the Ball. Danger to U.S. Emphasized by Writer Should Britain Lose Heart in Crisis

Anne O'Hare McCormick, writing recently in The New York Times, says a month ago in England people were saying that conditions could not be worse than they were. They could see the winter through, they said, because they were certain this must be the last of short rations and austerity clothes, of queuing up in the streets and doubling up at home.

The cheerful front of the war years was a little cracked, but they were patient still, so patient that some Englishmen were asking if patience had not ceased to be a virtue and become a habit. The usual reply was that if they held out and "made things do" a little longer the hardest stretch of the long road back would be over.

Now conditions are worse. The war dim-out is back and the pre-war, dole. The newspapers have reverted to their wartime size. The shabby homes of England are darker and colder. Life is grimmer for those who work by candlelight and those who cannot work because the power is shut off.

And the hardest part isn't just the temporary cut in electricity and fuel. Looking back from here on the last morning in London, when the sun rose over the Thames in a red haze and the view of the gray old city from the Embankment seemed so solid and unchanged, one sees that the sense of solidity did not come from the familiar outline of the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey and London Bridge. It came from the even pulse of the people.

But the pulse was slowing, and it is easy to imagine how it falters now, for the coal crisis means more than new privations and restrictions added to an already heavy load. It is a blow to the steady faith in themselves that has supported the British people through the most shattering decade of their history. It has somehow been taken for granted, by themselves, by ourselves and the world at large, that they will continue to muddle through. The danger now is that they will lose heart, and if the British lose heart it will be an incalculable loss, particularly to the United States.

The present emergency is not merely a coal crisis. Nor is it the consequence of unprecedented cold weather or a failure of the Labor Government. While it is sure to diminish the prestige of Labor, it is not likely to unseat it, for the people as a whole seem determined to give this administration a fair trial. It is the climax of a series of crises, all symptomatic of what the war has done to Britain and to the entire economic and political structure of the Empire. British post-war policy of production for export and nothing for the home consumer is a policy of desperation. It lessens incentive to work and strains the spartan spirit to the breaking point, but it is necessary if Britain is ever to be able to pay with her products for the food and raw materials she is obliged to import. Without world trade these islands might as well be sunk in the ocean, another Atlantis lost in the awful flux of the tides of power.

No American can afford to take a spectator attitude to what happens in Britain. In two unwilling wars we have acknowledged that our survival is linked with hers. In England as in France, in Italy, in every country of Western Europe, voices are raised today in question and protest against dependence on America. They are as yet the voices of the minority—the left wing of the Labor party, the French Communists, the Italians in revolt against a treaty they think has left them defenceless before their enemies. But such voices are becoming louder, and they are bound to gain force if Britain grows weaker instead of stronger and the European balance therefore tips toward the Russian side.

The British coal shortage is not alarming in itself. Every country in Europe lacks coal, and the general shortage slows up the whole process of recovery. That a nation sitting on coal, formerly one of the great coal exporters of the world, should not have a fortnight's reserve in midwinter is serious chiefly because it reveals a dearth of manpower, or human energy, and thereby shows up the disorder of a continent which is cursed at the same time with dangerous unemployment in some countries and lack of manpower in others. The graves aspect of Britain's situation is that she has no other reserves, and this weakening of her economic power, tied up as it is with the dissolution of her empire, will affect her influence in the pending decisions on which the future depends.

The German settlement, for instance, will be determined by many factors, but immediate decisions will be taken on the basis of how long and in what force the United States and Great Britain are willing to stay in Germany. At present, occupation is costing the British more than it is costing us, and complaints against "paying reparations to Germany," as some protesters put it, are already heard in this country. The chief object of Mr. Hoover's mission is to "save the taxpayer" by finding, and publicizing, the level of industry at which the Germans could be made self-supporting.

If this is true here, how long can England afford to pay the costs of occupation? One answer is that all the changes in British policy in Germany, including the effort to step up production, the support of an economic merger with the American zone, the recent abandonment of denazification except in the first categories, are attempts to lighten the financial burden.

Thus on the question of Germany alone it is very important to us that Britain should be able to play a strong role in the peacemaking. The alternative is a reduction of our influence and an increase in that of Russia.

OH, DO YOU HAVE TO TAKE IT TOO?

Listen, O Frosh, and I'll tell you plenty
About the merits of History 20;
The course for you, if your education
Cries out to be told of the Reformation,
Or else you feel all your future wants
Is the inside dope on the Renaissance.

This "general survey" is not for you—

You won't know nothin' when you get through,
But the age that'll fill your life with glee
Is 13 to 1700 A.D.
Life is filled with problems, my son,

With History 20, you need fear none,
With all those facts on which to seize
You'll be ready for any emergencies.
Why, you never know WHEN you'll be asked to discuss
The relative merits of Wycliffe and Huss,

And you'll be acclaimed as a social shark,
If you're hep to the trial of Joan of Arc;
While you might be in danger of seeming absurd
If you're certain that Fugger's a sort of bad word.

You won't be entitled an ignorant dolt
While describing in detail the Peasants' Revolt;
With fireside tales you'll be able to play us
Of Boniface, Innocent third, and Pope Plus.

Oh, in medical studies you'll learn how to toss a fee
In arts, you'll be grounded in basic philosophy
In maths, figure numbers from one to infinity,
You'll help fellow-men, if you study divinity,
But whether engaged in atomic research
Or preparing to bring in the crowds to your church,
You'll be lost—drifting—life will be aimless and bare
If of Renaissance secrets you're still unaware—

But surely you need no advisory chatter?
The calendar leaves you no choice in the matter!

Brockville, Ont. — O. — Police got a shock the other day when, on a report from Toronto police, they went to advise next of kin that a Brockville man had committed suicide. The man in question opened the door.

98% of Life Insurance Companies Lift All Curbs on Airplane Travel

Because of the actually lower fatality rate on the scheduled airlines of the United States, despite the accumulation of spectacular crashes at the year-end, the Institute of Life Insurance announced at New York that 98 per cent. of life insurance companies now issue policies at standard rates to airline passengers.

This compares with only 87 per cent. of companies issuing such policies a year ago. Those now so insuring represent 80 per cent. of all life insurance business in the United States, according to the institute's survey.

The Air Transport Association also announced that today 95 per cent. of the insurance companies issue policies to pilots and other air crew members at an extra premium of not more than $3 per $1,000, as against the $20 to $50 required in the early days of air operations.

Of the companies covered in the institute's survey 84 per cent. impose no limits whatever on the insured's use of the scheduled airlines. Only 14 per cent. make such restrictions as limiting flight to 40,000 miles a year or limiting the size of the policy.

"The continued liberalization in 1946," Holgar J. Johnson, president of the institute, said, "is in recognition of the persistent trend of increased safety from 1935 to 1946. It considers only the experience of the companies with the scheduled lines where fatalities dropped from 4.8 per hundred million passenger miles in 1935 to 2.1 in 1945 and only 1.2 in 1946. This does not, of course, include non-scheduled transports, military craft and foreign planes, all of which have figured in news reports of airplane accidents in the last few months."

A tabulation released by the institute showed that while only 4 per cent. of the companies issued policies without severe flight limitations in 1935, 84 per cent. of them do so now. In 1935 the tabulation showed that 13 per cent. of the companies declined outright to insure crew members while only 3 per cent. so refuse now; that, where insured, the extra premium required was $25 a thousand in 1935 and only $3 today, and that 59 per cent. of the companies write crew insurance at such extra premium without limit on the size of the policy.

The institute's figures showed a curve of increased life insurance written in almost direct inverse ratio to the reduction of accidents.
